Jonah's Home Town to Important Sea Port.

Plans Under Way for Modern Reads for Old City, Famous in Bible Times - Italian Syndicate to Back Project. Jaffa, Palestine. -- If Jonah the prophet should return within the next few months to this little atavistic port, whence he set sail some 2,000 years ago on his tempestuous voyage, he probably would be amazed at the

After all these centuries, ism, in the form of a Twentieth con tury harbor, is about to make its commercial encrouchments upon this baskwhen Jonah knew It.

For some years, and particularly since the British occupation, a harbor for Palestine has been talked of, but only now is this dream of easy ingress and egress to and from the cradle of Christianity about to be realized.

An Italian banking syndicate, having satisfied itself that great commercial possibilities are wrapped up in new-old Palestine, has offered to advance the necessary capital, subject to adequate governmental guaranties, and the actual work is expected soon to begin.

The plans as drawn call for the expenditure of a sum not to exceed $7,-000,000, to be retired with interest within thirty years.

The harbor is to be located directly opposite the section of the old city of Bible times, making the present custom house a central point from which the extension will be made northward and southward. It is to comprise three sections, one devoted entirely to freight and passenger ships, one to shipbuilding and repairing and one to fishing.

Lack of proper harbor facilities has been one of the greatest impediments to commercial development of Palestine, and, consequently, the inhabitants are looking with keen antici tion upon the time when large ships can dock easily on Palestine's sh When the weather is stormy and the sea rough, it is now practically impos-sible for boats to come even within three miles of land, where even in mild weather all ships have to be loaded and unloaded with the aid of small, obsolete craft. Thus it is es-timated at least $1,000,000 a year can be saved on the loading and unloading item alone, to say nothing of the in evitable effect better shipping facil-ities will have on the cost of living.
